

Varieties for New Jersey Home Vegetable Gardeners

Fact Sheet FS681

Cooperative Extension

Wesley Kline, Ph.D., Agricultural Agent, Cumberland County, Peter Nitzsche, Agricultural Agent, Morris County; Michelle Casella, Agricultural Agent, Gloucester County, William Sciarappa, Agricultural Agent, Monmouth County; William Hlubik, Agricultural Agent, Middlesex County; Melvin Henninger, Vegetable Crop Specialist, Rutgers University; and Raymond Samulis, Agricultural Agent, Burlington County

This factsheet is intended for all home gardeners in New Jersey. Some of these varieties are available only through seed company catalogs. For a listing of seed companies, see fact sheet FS1163, Mail Order Vegetable Seed Sources for the New Jersey Gardener, available from your local Rutgers Cooperative Extension office. In addition, visit <http://njveg.rutgers.edu> or contact your county extension office for more specific information concerning these vegetables. Below is a list of varieties that have performed well in research trials in New Jersey. There may be many other varieties that perform well in your garden.
